I think it will be better when the sun gets stronger." Below Navesink Village the stream was quite well populated with anglers, and although the catches seemed more numerous than on the Beaverkill or Willowemoc, they were hardly up to other years, according to the local experts. Later in the day the fishing on the Willowemoc and Beaverkill showed considerable improvement and almost every angler the writer met had one or two fish in his creel. But none of them was in excess of a pound, and most of them under half this weight. "Better luck tomorrow," was the phrase on almost every tongue,	True	By Raymond R.
